DR. JERRY BUSS, Chairman

Jerry Buss purchased the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association, the Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League, The Great Western Forum and a 13,000-acre Kern Country ranch in June 1979, in what was the largest sports transaction of all-time. Buss also acquired the Los Angeles Sparks in 1997.

An era of success unrivaled in Southern California professional sports followed. The success of the Lakers is attributable to the combined efforts of great players, outstanding coaches, intelligent management and imaginative marketing. This teamwork, under Jerry Buss's direction, created an enormous popularity that helped the NBA achieve its current high level of national and international acceptance.

A graduate of the University of Wyoming with a Bachelor's degree in Chemistry, Buss earned his Ph.D in Physical Chemistry from the University of Southern California. After a brief career in the aerospace industry, Buss and Frank Mariani, an aerospace engineer, drew upon their scientific training to launch a career in real estate. For Buss, this venture was intended only to provide income to enable him to pursue his love for teaching. Soon, however, the real estate firm of Mariani-Buss Associates expanded so fast that its demands did not allow time for other professions.

Buss parlayed his original $1,000 investment in a West Los Angeles apartment building into assets that eventually enabled him to achieve his second love, which was ownership of a major league sports team.

Since his entry into the NBA, Buss has initiated many innovative marketing changes, including the major advertising agreement with Great Western Bank in 1988 that resulted in the Laker's former home being named the Great Western Forum. Many of his marketing strategies are emulated by various NBA franchises as well as other teams in other leagues. He recently served two terms as President of the NBA Board of Governors. Among other accomplishments, he helped launch Prime Ticket Network (now FOX Sports Net West and FOX Sports Net West 2) in 1985. It shortly became the nation's premier regional sports cable network.

Of Buss's four children, all are actively involved in his business operations. Jeanie was named Lakers Executive Vice President of Business operations in June of 1999. Johnny is President of the Los Angeles Sparks, a charter member of the Women's National Basketball Association. Jim serves as an Assistant General Manager of the Lakers while Janie is the Director of Charitable Services. For all of his accomplishments in business, Buss is as equally respected for his philanthropic efforts on behalf of highly divergent causes. While he is drawn to supporting education, the needs of disadvantaged youth and the elderly, his contributions are all encompassing.

For his efforts he has been honored by such organizations as the City of Hope, Urban League, NAACP, the B'nai B'rith, United Negro College Fund, United Indian Development Girls Clubs of America and the Los Angeles Human Relations Commissions, among many others. Additionally, he has funded scholarships at his alma maters, as well as having endowed the Magic Johnson Scholarship at Michigan State University. He also runs an annual celebrity golf tournament to support the YMCA-Junior Lakers and Shooting Sparks Basketball leagues for boys and girls as well as a dinner in support of the Union Rescue Mission and the Skid Row Charity Fund.

JOHNNY BUSS, President

Regarded as one of the progressive pioneers of the WNBA, Johnny Buss has not restrained his pace in making the WNBA a major player in the world of sports. Entering his ninth season with the Sparks, Buss has kept a "state of the art" mindset in sports entertainment as he will try anything to keep the fans entertained. Over the last 30 years, Buss has learned valuable lessons from his active involvement with his father, Lakers owner, Dr. Jerry Buss: "The best lesson I have learned from my father is to win championships. It is ultimately the greatest form of entertainment." Holding true to his father's teaching, the Sparks have been a true contender the last five seasons, reaching the finals on three occasions and boasting two championship titles in 2001 and 2002. Buss attributes the success of the Sparks to the players and the staff, namely, Lisa Leslie, Penny Toler and Michael Cooper. Starting his career in sports as a traveling secretary for World Team Tennis' Los Angeles Strings, Buss has since worked and inspired entertainment in Tennis, Soccer and Basketball. His innovative ideas have allowed him to keep pace in the always-changing style of Hollywood.

In addition to his desire for winning championships and continuing 'Showtime' entertainment, Buss is deeply involved with local community issues, mainly school and after-school sports. Buss encourages fan-player interaction and has overseen more than 500 community appearances in the last eight years. Buss believes his main job is to inspire young girls to be involved in sports while providing an outlet to continue at a professional level.

Johnny Buss was born in Los Angeles, the eldest of four children (brother Jim, sisters Jeanie and Janie) to Dr. Jerry Buss and his wife, JoAnn. Buss is also kin to two half brothers, Joey and Jesse who are soon to be working within the family business.

VIRGINIA "PENNY" TOLER
General Manager

Widely recognized as the first player to score a basket in WNBA history, Virginia "Penny" Toler began her career with the Los Angeles Sparks as the starting point guard in the League's inaugural game on June 21, 1997 at the Great Western Forum. Originally allocated along with Lisa Leslie as one of the two Los Angeles franchise players, Toler retired from professional basketball in November 1999 with a combined 12 years oversea/WNBA playing experience to become the second general manager in team history. Primarily responsible for player personnel and strategy, Toler accomplished in just two years what no other general manager in WNBA history has been able to do. Assembling a championship caliber team that would eventually dethrone the four-time WNBA champion Houston Comets, Toler and the Sparks delivered the first-ever WNBA Championship to the city of Los Angeles.

In addition to scoring the first basket in WNBA history, Toler's professional career has been an impressive one. Named to the USA Basketball Olympic Committee in her first year as general manager, Toler was an integral component in the USA's unprecedented fourth gold medal in 2004.

A businesswoman by nature, Toler began her "Points from Penny" program in 1998 to teach youth in the Los Angeles and Las Vegas areas the fundamentals of basketball, the importance of teamwork and the value of competition. "Points" consisted of a series of basketball clinics personally instructed by Toler for boys and girls ages 7-14. The program was nominated for several awards during its tenure, including the American Express Entrepreneurial Spirit Award. Since that time she has focused on bringing the same type of community oriented programs to the Sparks front office. Developing the team's first-ever Academic Skills Basketball Clinic, Toler created a program that emphasized the importance of academic as well as physical success. Over 150 students attended the clinic that allowed college and career counselors from local universities the opportunity to speak with students about the delicate balance between education and sports. In addition, the entire Sparks team and coaching staff were on hand to instruct participants in various aspects of the game's dynamics.

A native of Washington D.C., Toler attended Long Beach State University where she set several school records including career assists (513) and career free-throw percentage (.795). She earned Kodak All-America honors and Co-Player of the Year/Big West recognition in 1988 and 1989 before finishing her collegiate career in 1989. Toler scored 2,193 points in three seasons of play at LBSU (she sat out the 1985-86 season after transferring from San Diego State). She then played overseas from 1989-1997 for a variety of teams including Montecchio and Pescara in Italy, Sporting Flash in Greece, and Ramat HaSharon in Isreal. During this time, she acquired many honors and finished the 1995 European Cups as the fifth leading scorer, averaging 22 points per game. During the 1997 WNBA season, Toler was the Sparks' second leading scorer at 13.1 ppg and finished as the team leader in free throw percentage, shooting 83.9 percent from the field. Toller also shot 41.7 percent from three-point range, ranking her second in the WNBA among three-point percentage leaders, and she finished fifth in the league in passing with 4.8 apg. Playing in her final season in 1999, Toler played in 30 out of 32 games, averaging 4.8 points and 2.2 assists per game as a valuable bench contributor while finishing fifth in the League in free throw percentage (86.7%).

Toler's hobbies include real estate investing, working with underprivileged youth and donating toward battered women's programs. She has three brothers and four sisters and currently resides in Los Angeles.

Sparks 2004 In Review

Sparks History

Established in 1997 as one of eight original teams in the WNBA, Los Angeles tipped off the WNBA Inaugural season on June 21, 1997 versus the New York Liberty at the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, CA. A crowd of 14,284 watched as Sparks guard Penny Toler scored the first basket in WNBA history enroute to a 67-57 victory for the Liberty. The League concluded the inaugural season with a league-wide attendance average of 10,207 fans per game. Los Angeles compiled an impressive 74-48 record in four seasons at the Great Western Forum before following their NBA counterparts, the Los Angeles Lakers, to STAPLES Center, located in the heart of downtown Los Angeles.

Led by former WNBA Coach of the Year, Michael Cooper, the Sparks went on to tie a League record and franchise best 28 wins in their WNBA debut at STAPLES Center in 2001. Posting a record-breaking 9-0 start to the 2001 campaign, Los Angeles completed the regular season undefeated at home with a WNBA best 16-0 mark. The Sparks also topped the League at No. 1 in points (76.3), defensive rebounds (.720), total rebounds (.39) and assists (18.3) per game and captured their first ever WNBA championship – sweeping the Eastern Conference Champion Charlotte Sting in the championship series. In 2002, the Sparks became the second team in WNBA history to repeat as Champions – going undefeated (6-0) through the playoffs en route to a sweep of the Eastern Conference Champion New York Liberty. The Los Angeles Sparks held an impressive 12-1 playoff record during their back-to-back championship seasons.

The 2003 season proved to be an injury riddled one for the Los Angeles Sparks. Resiliently, the Sparks overcame their injuries and went on to win the Western Conference Championship for a third consecutive season. The Sparks had a convincing Game 1 victory over the Detroit Shock 75-63. They were then faced with the scenario of trying to become the first team in WNBA history to win the Championship on the road. This feat nearly came to fruition as the Sparks overcame a 19 point deficit in Game 2 at Detroit, however, Detroit pulled out the nail-biter 62-61 to force a deciding Game 3. The championship game, held at The Palace at Auburn Hills, proved to be a historic event as it was home to the largest crowd in WNBA history – 22,076. The Detroit Shock's victory was sealed by Deanna Nolan's three-point basket with 53 seconds remaining and perfect free throw shooting down the stretch.

The 2004 Sparks continued their impressive streak of playoff appearances by making it to postseason play for the sixth-straight year with a 25-9 regular-season record. However, the Sacramento Monarchs ended the Sparks' chances of repeating as Western Conference Champions with a first-round series victory over Los Angeles. 2004 WNBA MVP Leslie Leslie led the league in rebounds per game and was third in scoring. Leslie and teammate Nikki Teasley each received All-WNBA recognition.

The Sparks are coached by former USC head coach Henry Bibby, who is in his first season with the franchise. Former team point guard Penny Toler retired from basketball in November 1999 to become the first WNBA player in League history to go from the hardwood to the executive suite as General Manager of Player Personnel. Sparks President Johnny Buss has himself, been a major driver in transforming the Los Angeles Sparks from a fledgling start-up team to a force to be reckoned with throughout the WNBA. The Sparks are strongly committed to serving the Los Angeles community through programs that positively influence people's lives and promote the importance of a healthy, active lifestyle.

History of the WNBA

On April 24, 1996, women's basketball announced "We Got Next" as the NBA Board of Governors approved the concept of a Women's National Basketball Association (WNBA) to begin play in June 1997.

Since that day in 1996 there have been many firsts for the WNBA: Val Ackerman -- the first president of the WNBA; Sheryl Swoopes -- the first player signed to the WNBA; Cynthia Cooper -- the league's first Most Valuable Player; the Houston Comets -- the first WNBA Champions; Lisa Leslie -- the first WNBA player to dunk.

However, the very first for the league was a "to-do list." With less than 15 months to tipoff, a league of its own began to unfold for the WNBA as each task was completed. The history of the WNBA follows:

On the Air . . .

Before a player was signed or a staff member was in place, the league announced its broadcast partnerships with NBC, ESPN and Lifetime Television. It was decided that the WNBA season would be played in the summer when the sports calendar was less crowded and the games could be televised live. During a successful inaugural season, more than 50 million viewers watched WNBA games on the three networks.

ESPN2 joined NBC and ESPN to televise WNBA games beginning in 2001 and carried live coverage of the WNBA Draft. Lifetime, which had carried games during the first four seasons, continued as a partner through 2002, presenting Players' Journal, a weekly half-hour magazine show highlighting the on and off-court lives of the league's players and coaches.

Oxygen Media signed on to televise WNBA games in 2002, and ABC Sports became a new partner through a six-year agreement that extended the WNBA's national television coverage through 2008. Telemundo, the fastest growing Spanish language television network in the U.S., and NBA TV, the league's 24-hour television network, also joined ABC, ESPN, ESPN2 and Oxygen in carrying WNBA games beginning with the 2003 season.

WNBA games and programming reached the largest global audience since the league's inception in 2004, with WNBA content broadcast to 188 countries in 30 languages. The league delivers an audience unique in sports. In-arena, gender breakdown is approximately 80-20 female-male. The TV audience is about 50-50 female-male, with a strong percentage of non-adult viewers.

The 2004 season opened with a bang when University of Connecticut star Diana Taurasi started her much anticipated professional basketball career with the Phoenix Mercury. ABC's first televised game of the season was Phoenix at the Connecticut Sun. The telecast was the highest rated WNBA game (regular season or playoffs) ever on ABC.

The Players and the Teams. . .

The first of the player signings was announced on October 23, 1996, with Sheryl Swoopes and Rebecca Lobo joining the league. The duo was soon followed by Lisa Leslie, Ruthie Bolton, Cynthia Cooper and Michele Timms -- the first international player.

Eight teams were announced for the league's inaugural season. The Eastern Conference consisted of the Charlotte Sting, Cleveland Rockers, Houston Comets and New York Liberty while the Western Conference was comprised of the Los Angeles Sparks, Phoenix Mercury, Sacramento Monarchs and Utah Starzz.

On April 29, 1999, the WNBA and the Women's National Basketball Players Association (WNBPA) announced the league's first Collective Bargaining Agreement -- a first of its kind in women's team sports.

By 2000, the league had expanded to 16 teams, with the Detroit Shock and Washington Mystics joining the league in 1998, the Minnesota Lynx and Orlando Miracle in 1999, and the Indiana Fever, Miami Sol, Portland Fire and Seattle Storm in 2000.

The 2002 season saw 176 women play professional basketball in 256 regular-season WNBA games (schedule history: 34 games in 2003; 32 games from 1999-2002; 30 in 1998; 28 in 1997). Continuing to showcase talented stars from around the world, the league featured 45 players from 22 countries.

In October 2002, the NBA Board of Governors voted to restructure the WNBA to allow individual team ownership, and to allow teams to be owned by non-NBA owners and located in non-NBA markets. Orlando, Miami, Portland and Utah elected not to assume ownership of their teams, and in December, the WNBA announced the relocation of the Utah Starzz to San Antonio, which had previously been awarded a WNBA franchise. The team would be named the Silver Stars.

On January 28, 2003, the Connecticut Sun were awarded the Orlando Miracle and became the newest WNBA franchise, with the Mohegan Tribe of Indians becoming the first non-NBA owner in league history.

On April 25, 2003, the WNBA and the WNBAPA signed its second Collective Bargaining Agreement which gave WNBA players the first free agency rights in women's professional team sports.

On September 19, 2003, the Cleveland Cavaliers/Gund Arena Company announced that they would no longer operate the Cleveland Rockers.

The WNBA Draft . . .

The Comets selected Tina Thompson, the Pac-10 Conference's leading scorer, with the first pick of the inaugural WNBA Draft. Margo Dydek, a 7-2 center from Poland, was selected first in the 1998 Draft by the Starzz, and two-time Associated Press Women's Basketball Player of the Year Chamique Holdsclaw was the Washington Mystics' No. 1 selection in the 1999 Draft. In 2000, the Cleveland Rockers selected Ann Wauters from Belgium as the 1st overall pick, and Australian Olympian Lauren Jackson went to the Seattle Storm with the No. 1 selection in 2001. In 2002, National Player of the Year Sue Bird was selected by Seattle, who had the top pick for the second consecutive year by virtue of the WNBA's first Draft Lottery, held in New York on November 13, 2001. The Cleveland Rockers made Latoya Thomas of Mississippi State the No. 1 selection in the 2003 WNBA Draft held Friday, April 25, 2003. The 2004 first overall pick has come to be known as the worst kept secret in the history of the WNBA Draft when the Phoenix Mercury selected University of Connecticut star and three-time NCAA Champion Diana Taurasi.

The Logos and the Uniforms . . .

With players and teams in place, the league began its next task of creating logos and uniforms. The red, white and blue official WNBA logo -- "Logo Woman" -- was selected from approximately 50 design options. After developing an extensive list of choices, the team names were selected by the league and teams based on factors including: a tie to the NBA team name in that market, a link to a key characteristic of the city or state and/or the creation of a name fitting the current sports landscape. The uniforms also underwent several design changes, and on May 21, 1997, the WNBA unveiled the team uniforms.

On May 1, 2003, the WNBA and Reebok unveiled new uniform designs which were created to maximize performance and provide optimal comfort for the players. The jerseys are tapered to fit a woman's body and are designed to be worn untucked, providing free range of motion for the players. The new uniforms features flat-back mesh material that incorporates Play Dry™ technology -- Reebok's moisture management system that helps keep the athlete cooler, drier and more comfortable by using temperature and humidity-regulating properties in the fabric.

The WNBA and Reebok also unveiled a new style in the WNBA Footwear Collection by Reebok -- the WNBA Isolation -- at the beginning of the 2003 season. This shoe features the WNBA logo on the heel, tongue, sole and sock liner.

It's a Ball Game . . .

The start of the 2004 season brought some changes in the WNBA rules with the three-point line moving from 19-feet, nine inches to the international length of 20-feet, 6 _ -inches, and the lane widening from 12-feet to the NBA width of 16-feet. The WNBA game also consists of a 30-second clock, two 20-minute halves, eleven-player rosters and a collegiate-regulation size ball. The WNBA's signature orange-and-oatmeal basketball by Spalding is 28.5 inches in circumference and one inch smaller than the NBA's regulation ball. In January 2003, Spalding Sports Worldwide and the WNBA announced the Spalding WNBA Infusion basketball, featuring a built-in, dual action Micro Pump®, as the new official game ball of the league.

Millions of Fans Join In . . .

The inaugural WNBA season tipped off on June 21, 1997, with the New York Liberty taking on the Los Angeles Sparks at the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, Calif.. A crowd of 14,284 watched as Sparks guard Penny Toler scored the first basket in WNBA history. The Liberty defeated the Sparks 67-57. Then on August 22, the WNBA league attendance surpassed the 1 million mark at America West Arena in Phoenix. In 2001, the WNBA welcomed its 10 millionth fan on September 1 at the STAPLES Center in Los Angeles. In 2002, more than 2.5 million fans attended WNBA games, as regular-season attendance averaged more than 9,000 fans for the sixth straight season. In 2004, the WNBA season attendance topped the 2 million mark for the sixth consecutive year.

Overall, the popularity of WNBA.com continues to soar. During the 2004 season, WNBA.com averaged more than 60,000 visits per day.

The start of 2004 WNBA season was one for the record books as WNBA.com enjoyed a record-setting opening weekend with more than 2.5 million page views and 300,000 total visits.

In the Community . . .

Off the court the WNBA continues to position its players as positive role models for all of its fans - male and female, young and old. The League and its teams created and implemented programs which emphasized healthy lifestyles, positive self-image, breast health awareness, reading and youth basketball programs.

The WNBA's new Be Smart - Be Fit - Be Yourself program will continue to focus on providing a program that teaches the positive benefits of exercise, good nutrition and a positive attitude. 2005 marks the third year that the WNBA and The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation join forces as the League continues its leadership role in raising awareness and funds for breast health awareness. Since its inception, the League has raised over $2 million to aid in the fight against breast cancer. The WNBA also remains committed to the Read to Achieve initiative. Throughout the year players, coaches and staff played the role of storyteller as they hosted tens of thousands of fans at reading time-outs in all 13 team markets. In addition, teams continue to host book drives and unveil team branded reading corners at schools, libraries and other community based organizations. Finally, in its fourth successful year, the Jr. NBA/Jr. WNBA is a network of recreational youth basketball leagues that provide access to a variety of membership programs and instructional materials for players, parents, coaches and officials. The instructional materials include guidelines for skill development, sportsmanship and physical fitness.

League Showcases All-Stars . . .

On July 14, 1999, the league held the Inaugural WNBA All-Star Game at Madison Square Garden in New York City, which was televised live on ESPN. The capacity crowd of 18,649 witnessed the incredible athleticism, teamwork, fan involvement and in-arena excitement that is unique to the WNBA. The Western Conference All-Stars -- led by the game's Most Valuable Player and Los Angeles Sparks center Lisa Leslie -- defeated the Eastern Conference 79-61.

In 2003, the WNBA All-Star Game marked its fifth anniversary with a return to Madison Square Garden on July 12. The event made its network television debut on ABC. The West All-Stars won the event for the fifth straight year by beating the East All-Stars 84-75 in front of 18,610 fans, with Nikki Teasley of the Los Angeles Sparks taking home the MVP honors.

In 2004, the Summer Olympic Games in Athens, Greece created a one of a kind opportunity for the WNBA. After the league's decision to break for the month of August to allow Olympic team members to represent the U.S., the concept for WNBA All-Stars vs. USA Basketball: The Game at Radio City was born. Serving as an Olympic Team send-off, the game -- played in front of a sell-out crowd – made history as the first basketball game played in the historic venue.

WNBA Finals...

The first four years of the WNBA saw the Houston Comets dominate the league Finals and create the first dynasty of the WNBA. The Comets captured the inaugural Championship against New York on August 30, 1997 by a score of 65-51. Comets guard, Cynthia Cooper won the first Finals MVP award. In 1998, the WNBA Finals expanded to a three-game series and Houston defeated Phoenix two games to one. Houston's Cynthia Cooper captured her second consecutive Finals MVP award. The Houston Comets would go on to capture Championship titles in 1999 and 2000.

In 2001, Los Angeles knocked off Houston in the early rounds of the Western Conference playoffs and advanced on to meet Charlotte in the WNBA Finals. Los Angeles, due in large part to the play of Finals MVP Lisa Leslie, won the WNBA Finals two games to none. In 2002, Los Angeles advanced to the WNBA Finals and earned the right to defend their WNBA championship versus New York. The Sparks defeated the Liberty two games to zero and won their second consecutive Finals and Lisa Leslie won the WNBA Finals MVP award for the second straight year.

In 2003 the WNBA had a new championship team, after just two champions in five years. The Detroit Shock captured the WNBA crown in front of a record-setting crowd of 22,076. The Shock won 83-78 over the Los Angeles Sparks and Detroit center Ruth Riley was awarded the Finals MVP.

In 2004, the Seattle Storm and the Connecticut Sun advanced to the WNBA Finals each for the first time. In a decisive third game, the Storm who were in complete control the entire forty minutes, defeated the Sun 74-60 and Seattle guard Betty Lennox captured the Finals MVP title.

We Got Game . . .

Women's basketball has come a long way since its beginnings in 1892 when Senda Berenson adapted James Naismith's basketball rules for women. And with the continued growth of the WNBA, the sport continues to grow in popularity and set new standards for what women athletes, and women in general, can achieve. WNBA in the Community

The WNBA is deeply committed to creating programs that improve the quality of life for all people, with a special emphasis on promoting a healthy lifestyle and positive body image, breast health awareness, reading and youth programs. Each team is required to participate in league community relations all such programs in addition to their own community outreach efforts.

WNBA BE SMART – BE FIT – BE YOURSELF

The WNBA will embrace its responsibility as the preeminent women's professional sports league with powerful role models to continue to deliver important messages and programs related to the areas of health, fitness, nutrition and self esteem.

WNBA Be Smart - Be Fit - Be Yourself will encourage teens and women of all ages to learn more about their bodies and the importance of physical fitness. Programming has been developed to encourage teens and women to get started on "being fit" through small changes in their daily regimen.

The program will roll out over several months starting in Spring 2005 and will serve as a year-long "call to action" for teens and women to make a commitment to being fit and healthy. The official tip-off of the program will correspond with the start of the 2005 season. The content of the program will be communicated and delivered through vehicles including a Fitness Journal, 'Team' of Spokespeople and National and Local Events and Promotion.

BREAST HEALTH AWARENESS

The WNBA Breast Health Awareness program focuses on generating awareness and educating women about breast cancer in addition to raising funds for the initiative. 2005 will mark the third season of the partnership between the WNBA and The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation. In 2004, the WNBA and its teams raised nearly $200,000 to benefit the Komen Foundation. The highlights of the partnership are a pair of online auctions, held in July and October where fans have the opportunity to log on to bid on their favorite WNBA and NBA items. All proceeds from these items, including games of HORSE with WNBA and NBA stars, All-Star memorabilia and autographed items, will benefit The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation.

READ TO ACHIEVE

Read to Achieve is a year-round, league-wide initiative supported by NBA, WNBA and NBDL teams that promotes the values of reading and on-line literacy and encourages families and adults to read regularly with young children. The program includes thousands of reading time-outs, the donation of books and literacy materials, and the creation of Reading and Learning Centers and Reading Corners throughout the world.

National and local All-Star Reading Teams have been formed consisting of current and former NBA and WNBA players and other members of the NBA and WNBA family, who promote reading efforts through in-arena events, public service announcements and school and community appearances throughout the year.

JR NBA/JR. WNBA

The Jr. NBA/Jr. WNBA believes that lessons learned on- and off-the-court as a member of a team are lessons that are infinitely useful in building relationships at school, home and work. By stressing fundamental skill development, teamwork, sportsmanship and positive adult participation, the Jr. NBA/Jr. WNBA aims to develop a life-long passion for the game of basketball by providing a support structure that not only encourages participation, but also makes the game fun and rewarding for players, coaches, officials and parents.

COMMUNITY ASSIST AWARD

The WNBA Community Assist Award was created to honor the WNBA Players that reflect the passion that the league and its players have for their communities. The WNBA will recognize one player in each of the 13 WNBA team markets with an off-season Community Assist Award. The WNBA will donate $500 in the name of each off-season award winner to the charity of her choice. Teams will be provided with WNBA Community Assist Award plaques to present to the winner during an on-court presentation at one of the teams' first three home games.

In June, July and August the WNBA will choose one player from across the league for the Community Assist Award and will donate $5,000 in the name of that player to the charity of her choice. On-court presentations to the winning player will also occur.

Sparks in the Community

The Los Angeles Sparks shoot for success both on the court and in the community. Johnny Buss and the team are dedicated to making a difference in Los Angeles by taking part in several programs throughout the year that support literacy and the importance of living a healthy lifestyle.

Christi Thomas, the Sparks Off-Season Community Assist Award winner, made a variety of appearances to promote the team this spring. Reading to 500 girls at the Seventh Annual Girls in Sports Day L.A. was a notable appearance, along with speaking at Horace Mann Middle School's sixth grade career day, and serving as an honorary judge at Sparkids tryouts. Thomas also participated in the 2005 Jr. NBA/Jr. WNBA championships at Pan Pacific Park with teammate Doneeka Hodges. They had an autograph signing session and took part in the awards ceremony by handing out medals to the runner's up and presenting the championship trophies to the winner's of each division.

The Sparks are committed to helping the WNBA with their initiative to promote breast health awareness. Lisa Leslie continues to serve as the Sparks spokesperson for breast health awareness, a role that she has successfully taken on since 1997. Another league program that the team is involved with is the new "Be Smart-Be Fit-Be Yourself" initiative. The Sparks have also teamed up with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the National Osteoporosis Foundation to greater emphasize their promotion of healthy living. The campaign's purpose is to encourage girls to establish lifelong healthy habits by focusing on increased calcium consumption and weight-bearing physical activity to build and maintain strong bones. The CDC's "Powerful Bones. Powerful Girls." initiative is heavily involved in the Sparks efforts in the Be Smart-Be Fit-Be Yourself program, a concept associated in the minds of girls with being powerful inside and out. On Mother's Day, the Sparks launched the new program by hosting a clinic that taught young girls stretching techniques, proper form for lifting weights and plyometrics. Each participant received a health branded placemat, notepad, and fitness journal.

The Sparks also donate game tickets to hundreds of charitable organizations throughout the year. In order to fulfill the requests, a voucher system has been implemented and recipients are able to choose the game they wish to attend. Organizations are eligible to receive tickets by sending in a request to the Sparks community relations department. The Sparks Booster Club is another component of the Sparks community outreach. Entering its sixth season, this very dedicated and energetic support group is highly regarded by the Sparks organization. The Sparks Booster Club members are given exclusive opportunities during the season which include attending a private practice and a pre-game reception with a guest of honor.

Another event that has become a staple in the Los Angeles community is the Annual Sparks Academic and Skills Clinic developed by General Manager Penny Toler. The day is committed to teaching middle school and high school students the importance of being educated and how academics and athletics go hand in hand. Local educators and counselors lead the classroom portion of the day while the entire Sparks team and coaching staff run the basketball session. The combination of smarts and skills is what brings a quality clinic to the youth in Los Angeles each year.

HealthSouth Training Center

On April 28, 1999, the Los Angeles Lakers, the Los Angeles Sparks and the NHL's Los Angeles Kings officially "broke ground" on the new $24 million HealthSouth Training Center. Located at 555 N. Nash Street in El Segundo, the training center is built on a six-acre site which is part of the new Grand Avenue Corporate Center. The training center includes a basketball court, a pro shop, two public ice rinks and outdoor in-line skating rink, a restaurant and an interactive game studio as well as locker rooms, training facilities and office spaces for Lakers, Sparks and Kings.

The state-of-the-art training facilities at the disposal of the teams and support staff include a weight room that boasts over 10,000 pounds of equipment. The York performance series equipment is specifically designed and customized for use by larger athletes.

Also contained within the weight room are Olympic lifting platforms, the latest balance training equipment and a vast array of cardiovascular equipment. The Lakers/Sparks basketball court boasts a plyometric area, the first of its kind built into the basketball floor to help enhance the jumping ability and explosiveness of team members.

Other amenities of the training center include a therapy pool for the rehabilitation of injuries as well as cardiovascular exercise, a steam room, a nutrition and supplement station and a 19-seat theater-style viewing room which the players and coaching staff use to watch video and conduct meetings.

Designed by the Drezner group of Los Angeles, the facility became the home of the Lakers and Sparks players and staff in February of 2000.
